

Day 14 Go!

Shopping, that is!

Time to take those lists and go buy what's on them! If there's a homeschool store near you, it's fun to go buy things *with* your kids; give yourself and them a chance to see everything hands-on before you buy it. Take a look through what you've chosen and make sure it "feels right" to you! You can find many items at Barnes and Noble or Books a Million or some other regular bookstore, too.

If you aren't blessed with a nearby homeschool store, that's okay--the store will come to you! Get out those catalogs and send in your order, or call it in. If you don't have catalogs, go online! Most of the major curriculum companies have their own websites, usually under their names--Sonlight, Bob Jones, Abeka, etc. There are a few others you should know about . . .

www.rocksolidinc.com This company has great stuff and great prices! Homeschool products in every category, including the major retailers.

www.timberdoodle.com I love Timberdoodle! A great homeschool family, they stock fun homeschool supplies as well as some basic stuff. My kids always love looking through this catalog because they've got the best games and hands-on items.

You might also consider scouting out the used curriculum sources you sold your own things on! Now's the time of year that everyone's looking and selling, too, so check ebay, vegsource, and the used curriculum boards at www.welltrainedmind.com as well as www.sonlight-forums.com for great deals on lovingly used homeschool items!

DON'T FEEL GUILTY about spending money on homeschool curriculum! This is your kids' education and much of your life; get what you need and know that after all, you're saving about $400-$700 a month PER CHILD over sending them to private school! ;-)

Enjoy shopping!
